Innovative Announces RoHS Compliance

Rigorous European environmental manufacturing standard applied to Innovative product line

Easton, Pa. – October 12, 2007 – Innovative is pleased to announce its compliance with the Restriction of Hazardous Substances Directive (RoHS) adopted by the European Union. This directive restricts the use of hazardous materials in the manufacture of various types of electronic equipment. RoHS specifically restricts the use of six substances: lead, mercury, cadmium, hexavalent chromium, polybrominated biphenyls and polybrominated diphenyl ether.

Innovative also demands RoHS compliance throughout its supply chain, with all Innovative suppliers vetted as part of the thorough supplier evaluation process.
